Thanks for this, I think we can take some points off of this to ask for the services we will need, and then eventually Kyle would need to provide a contract for services- we should be able to do that vs employment

Jacque,

Attached is what I provided Scott regarding the potential PD for this role. Following up with our conversation yesterday, I do agree with your question as to whether we need a PD if it is a consultant role. A scope of work agreement is probably more appropriate. Similarly, would a consultant have a title such as this if they are not an official employee?

Please let me know if it is easier for us to connect and walk through these proposed revisions.

Thanks,

Brent

Scott,

#3623.1

Thank you for providing the proposed PD, I had a chance to review it and provided some thoughts for your consideration. I also revised some of the language to be in alignment with how we have done other PDs. I am looking forward to seeing how this position can enhance our department and am happy to support however needed.

Please let me know if you have any questions; I am traveling with baseball today and will be available by phone.

Thanks again,

Brent
